LAKE FORESTER

WITH NEWS OF LAKE BLUFF

Community Center

Film student Jeremy Vranich, 20, of Lake Bluff, along with Fishpoint Academy classmate Sam Feil, 19, also of Lake Bluff, and Columbia College alumna and fellow film enthusiast, Catherine Lynch, 23, of Lake Forest, complete the film crew that will make the 19,500 foot trek up Mt. Killmanjaro with the non-profit organization It Can Be Done! The team is scheduled to climb in January.

The young film crew will document the effects lack of fresh water has on the lives of 30,000 people living in impoverished Uru, Tanzania, on Africa's Mt. Killmanjaro. The documentary in progress, titled "Water Is Life: The Uru Project," aims as well to capture It Can Be Done's efforts to raise funds for the region.

The congregation of

OUT & ABOUT

the First Presbyterian Church of Lake Forest called Amy E. Pagliarella to the new position of Associate Pastor for Children's Faith Formation at a meeting of the congregation Nov. 16.

Pagliariella joined the staff in 2007. She will be ordained as a Minister of Word and Sacrament on Dec. 21.

Todd Curry of Lake Forest was named IDYPH's first vice president of marketing. He was previously the co-founder and president of Ascenda Partners, LLC of Northbrook.

Wendy Bergsath, executive vice president and branch manager of Prudential Preferred Properties' Lake Forest office, named Darla Andrews as sales leader for October.

Ann Jones and Rita Du Toit also achieved impressive results for the month.

WHAT'S NEW

Francesca's Intimo to donate funds

Francesca's Intimo in Lake Forest has agreed to donate 15 percent of patrons' bills to the non-profit organization It Can Be Done! on Mondays and Tuesdays if the customer mentions the organization to a restaurant employee.

The proceeds will benefit the purchasing of a drill to construct wells throughout the 12 villages of Uru on Mt. Killmanjaro, providing the 30,000 people living there with fresh water.

A fundraiser Climb For A Cause up Mt. Killmanjaro will take place in January by a team of seven, three of whom will make up a film crew documenting the charity climb. The film crew includes Lake Bluff residents Jeremy Vranich and Sam Feil and Catherine Lynch of Lake Forest.
